

National Board for Certification of School Nurses

Celebrate National School Nurses Day!

The National Board for Certification of School Nurses (NBCSN) would like to wish you a Happy School Nurse's Day! The board recognizes the unique contributions that school nurses make to the educational process. This is a great day to reflect on what certification means to you. Why did you become nationally certified? Was it for recognition? An increase in salary? Professional obligation? Or, self-satisfaction? Regardless of the reason, by becoming certified, you show your commitment to maintaining a national standard of preparation, knowledge, and practice.

The NBCSN would like to take this opportunity to thank the many volunteers who have assisted us in item (test question) writing, item review, form (test) review, passing score determination, and pool (item bank) review. It takes expertise in many areas to develop a reliable examination that reflects current practice. If you would like to volunteer to assist in these activities, become a state liaison, or other volunteer position, please visit <http://www.nbcnsn.org/forms-and-applications> to view opportunities and applications.

NCSNs are asked to continually encourage colleagues to become nationally certified. Tell your story! The next testing window is July 12-August 1, 2015. Registration for the exam will be open until June 12th. Information on certifying by examination may be found at: <http://www.nbcnsn.org/examination>. It is a pleasure to serve with you in our endeavor to advance the health and learning of students, and wellness of the school community, through a rigorous national certification process for school nurses.

Sincerely,
Sue Nokleby MS, RN, LSN, NCSN President National Board for Certification of School Nurses (NBCSN)
